Cards Against Urbanity

Basic Rules

To start the game, each player draws ten White Cards.

The person who most recently complained about their job begins as the Planning Director and plays a Black Card. The Planning Director reads the question or fill-in-the-blank phrase on the Black Card out loud.

Everyone else (Money Grubbing Consultants or Overly Concerned Citizens . . . seriously?! You are players, you don’t get a label) answers the question or fills in the blank by passing a White Card, face down, to the Planning Director. Or two cards if there are two blanks – in order, with first to be read on top.

The Planning Director shuffles all of the answers and shares each card combination with the group. For full effect, the Planning Director should usually re-read the Black Card out loud before presenting each answer.

The Planning Director then picks the funniest/naughtiest/wrongest play, and whoever submitted it gets one Zoning Approval (A.K.A. a point).

After the round, a new player becomes the Planning Director and everyone draws back up to ten White Cards.

Winning . . . not really possible, have you looked at our built environment lately?

Don’t be embarrassed to use the Cardsplanations and have fun!
